Summary of Impact – Joanna Foundation Grant Support

Holy City Well Being Mental Wellness Training Group (HCWB)

A National Center of Distinction – WRAP® Training

The Joanna Foundation grant significantly supported Holy City Well Being Mental Wellness Training Group (HCWB) in expanding access to evidence-based mental wellness education within underserved communities. As a National Center of Distinction with Advocates for Human Potential (AHP) and WRAP Inc., HCWB utilized grant funds to provide three (3) WRAP® Seminar I Mental Wellness Trainings to two youth groups totaling 27 teens, along with individuals serving vulnerable populations, including members of Star Gospel Mission.

Star Gospel Mission serves individuals experiencing homelessness, food insecurity, recovery challenges, and crisis-related hardships by providing meals, shelter support, outreach services, and compassionate care throughout the community. Through this partnership, HCWB was able to support those serving others while strengthening their own mental wellness and resilience.

Each WRAP® Seminar I training is nationally valued at $399 per participant, as listed through WRAP Inc. The Joanna Foundation grant helped remove financial barriers, allowing participants to receive training at no cost while gaining practical wellness tools that support long-term emotional wellbeing, stress management, recovery awareness, and healthy coping strategies.

Project Outcomes & Achievements

- Provided three (3) WRAP® Seminar I trainings
- Served 27 teens through structured mental wellness education
- Supported individuals serving those experiencing homelessness and recovery challenges
- Increased awareness of stress management, emotional regulation, and self-care practices
- Encouraged healthy communication, goal setting, and proactive wellness planning
- Reduced stigma around mental wellness through open discussion and peer engagement
- Strengthened partnerships with community organizations serving vulnerable populations

Community Impact

Participants actively engaged in wellness activities, vision planning, group discussions, and recovery-focused learning experiences. Teens demonstrated increased confidence, improved communication, and greater willingness to discuss personal challenges and future goals. Adults serving vulnerable populations reported a stronger understanding of burnout prevention, self-awareness, and the importance of maintaining their own wellness while supporting others.

The Joanna Foundation grant made a direct and meaningful difference by helping HCWB expand access to trauma-informed mental wellness training for youth and community servants who may not otherwise have had access to these resources. This investment strengthened community wellness, encouraged resilience, and supported healthier outcomes for individuals, families, and those serving on the front lines of care.
